Yonkers Students & GWHV Honored in Washington, D.C.

Yonkers students and Groundwork Hudson Valley volunteers Alivia Acosta, Nathan Martinez and Kira Lopez in Washington, D.C.

Groundwork was recognized last week in Washington, D.C., where Executive Director Rick Magder, Deputy Director Curt Collier and three Yonkers High School students accepted the Partners in Conservation Award from Interior Secretary Sally Jewell on behalf of all of the Groundwork trusts across the country.

The award honors Groundwork's outstanding contribution to conservation nationwide through community engagement and cooperation with local, state and federal partners.
